

FIGURES ISSUED OF INDIAN POSTS

CALCUTTA, Nov. 17.—The Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs in the course of an interview stated that there is little likelihood of postal rates being raised, and that the postal department is not likely to increase postage on letters. After the late increase of postage charges, he added, there had been a sharp drop from 20 to 30 per cent. in the volume of postal office business but that since June 1901 postal matter increased and steadily at revenue posts, and at the same time at the two lakhs of rupees weekly.

The total revenue was still not up to expectations because of trade depression and decrease telegrams. The expenditure had greatly increased because of the greater cost of labor and material, and cost of transport, and the long distances covered in India were sixfold those of Great Britain, which had not yet returned to the penny or one anna postage, as India has done.

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU'S VISIT.

The arrival in this country of Georges Clemenceau war-time premier of France—grand old man of France and who like many other statesmen of quality passed into the wilderness because people while loving him, ungratefully became tired of him, is something of an historic event. He is certainly not to be classified with the horde of famous personages who have invaded our shores on lecture tours attracted by the lucrative returns offered for personal opinions. The tiger of France is here on a mission, quite unofficial it is true but one which is destined to play a role in cementing the ties which bind the French Republic to our own.

M. Clemenceau is to make four or five public addresses while here, during which he hopes to present the French point of view on many present national and international subjects which has been misconstrued in this country. It is not the first time that this extraordinary old man who dominated France during those terrible days when the burden of oppression was felt keenest with the German armies seeking to batter their way to the French capital, has visited America. It is interesting to recall that at the close of the Civil War Clemenceau was sent to New York as an interpreter of post war problems which confronted this country. We was what we now would call foreign correspondent for a French newspaper. In those days he was doing something which he seeks to do now—to explain and clarify points of view and problems which came with the Reconstruction. His analysis of the racial problem at that time is said to have been exceptionally clear and concise and he showed a ready grasp of that question.

The French statesman comes to America with a glowing regard for his past achievements. He is recalled rather as the man who encountered with consummate skill the ever-changing situations fraught with such deadly peril when France had bared her breast to the onslaught of the German sauer. He comes leaving trepidation in the heart of official France for what he may say showered with suggestions and political counsels, heaped upon him in the French press. The tiger may be expected to follow his own course. Courage was his forte in the war days and courage in his forthcoming enunciations may be expected. We may hear from him truths about France which no one else has had the courage to speak.

Triumphs of M. Jonquelle

THE MAN WITH STEEL FINGERS

Begin Here Today

M. JONQUELLE, greatest of French detectives, faced the man with steel fingers—LORD VALLEYS, the powerful, half-Slav, half-English, nobleman who performed so brilliantly on the piano and who had recently succeeded to the wealth and title of his murdered uncle.

LORD WINTON. Three lives had stood between valleys and the title. But both of Lord Winton's sons were killed in the war and his granddaughter, the only heir, an American, was barred from the position by English law.

Lord Valleys tells M. Jonquelle that his uncle was stabbed to death while Valleys was visiting him. Valleys says he was down in the wine cellar at the time of the slaying but that, circumstantial evidence caused the English authorities to charge him with murder.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

LORD VALLEYS got up. "It was to be expected, monsieur, that the English court under these circumstances would try me for the murder of Lord Winton. I had both the motive and the opportunity to accomplish it, and the circumstances were, to say the least, indicative."

"To my surprise, this manservant, Staley, came forward to establish the fact that the wine cellar was less than a straw-heap, and this Metropolitan police officer appeared to say that he had seen the hansom leaving Lord Winton's door shortly before the fire was discovered. These facts indicated the truth of my statement."

"A further fact brought out by my legal advisers established with mathematical accuracy the fact that I had not dealt Lord Winton the blow that ejected him out of life. The wound which had caused his death had been made with the small blade of a knife."

The police found in my pocket a knife with a small blade, a blade of about the width of the wound. No evidence of blood was found on this knife, but the police professed to believe that it had been carefully washed. They thought traces of moisture remained on it. The case seemed convincing, I myself realized its gravity and but for one fact a conviction might have followed.

"The autopsy showed that the wound which had caused the death of Lord Winton was seven inches deep. The handle of the knife with which it had been accomplished had not entered the wound. The wound was no longer than the width of the small knife-blade at its exterior point."

Lord Valleys suddenly extended his hand, like one who puts down something that is finished.

"And I was therefore acquitted. You know, monsieur, what the English law-courts say. 'A man may lie, but circumstances cannot.' I may have lied and Lord Winton's manservant and the Metropolitan police who saw the hansom drive away on that night, but the science of mathematics could not lie. A wound seven inches deep could not be made with a knife-blade four inches long. And the case ended."

He went over to a table, got a tortoise shell box, delicately inlaid with silver, opened it and presented it to Monsieur Jonquelle.

"You will have a cigaret, monsieur," he said.

Monsieur Jonquelle took the cigaret, and Lord Valleys went back to the chair.

Then suddenly, as out of some inciting memory, the man's voice charged.

"A moment ago, monsieur, when I mentioned the arrival of the visitor at Lord Winton's house, and the doubt of the English court of that fact, you said it was true. How do do a certain thing for this, as you call it 'mysterious person.' He died before it could be carried out and I have now come to you to fulfill it. I trust, monsieur, that you will not deny me."

"YOU PURCHASED, MONSIEUR," HE SAID, "A THING THAT YOU ALREADY POSSESS."

Monsieur Jonquelle rose. He took a folded, legal paper out of his pockets and presented it to Lord Valleys.

"Monsieur," he said, "Lord Winton promised to execute this indenture. He died before his signature could be attached to it. I must ask you to execute it in his stead."

Suddenly, as once before on this morning, Lord Valleys, who had been seated the instant before, was now, with no motion that seemed visible to the eye, standing on his feet. He came forward, took the paper which Monsieur Jonquelle held in his hand, and going over to the table, unfolded it and stooped over it. He was some time in an inspection of the document, and in the meantime Monsieur Jonquelle had made a gesture, as one of flicking the ashes from a cigaret through the open window into the Bois de Boulogne. The two young men in their animated discussion instantly crossed the street and entered the house.

Presently Lord Valleys rose from his stooped posture. He was shaken with astonishment, but there was of this astonishment no visible element, either in his appearance or in his voice.

"Monsieur," he said, "this is a deed drawn by an English solicitor, conveying all of Lord Winton's estates in England to his granddaughter, Barbara Westridge. Why, monsieur, should I convey these estates to this American girl? They have descended to me by inheritance. One does not alienate his lands without a cause."

"I will suggest a reason," replied

Monsieur Jonquelle. "This is in accordance with Lord Winton's promise. You stand now in Lord Winton's stead, and as I have said, you have received his benefits, and you should assume his obligations. The smile which seemed not to disturb the features of his face. He folded the deed together in his hand.

"You must permit me to decline, monsieur," he said.

He paused a moment, and the background of his face hardened.

"And you must overlook it, monsieur," he said, "if I feel that your whole suggestion with respect to this matter is not convincing. This girl could not have assassinated Lord Winton."

"She could not," replied Monsieur Jonquelle. "Lord Winton was killed by some powerful assassin who seized him, compressed his body and drove in the knife."

He turned now toward Lord Valleys, his face firm.

"Monsieur," he said, "will you carry out the obligation of Lord Winton and leave the matter of his assassination a mystery, or will you refuse it and have that mystery solved?"

The man at the table looked strangely at Monsieur Jonquelle. He had the aspect of a creature of great strength, concerned always with concealing it. He was puzzled and disturbed, but his voice did not change.

"You know, then, the assassin of Lord Winton?"

"I do," replied the Prefect. "Shall I name him to you?"

The man made again the vague gesture with his white, steel fingers. "You may keep the secret of the name, monsieur," he said, "if you will be kind enough to tell me the thing that indicated to you the name."

"With pleasure," replied Monsieur Jonquelle. "You have said that the English criminal courts are stupid and I have concurred in that opinion. Observe, monsieur, the evidence of that stupidity. This criminal court could not understand how a knife-blade four inches long could inflict a direct wound seven inches deep. They measured the knife-blade and the wound, these English, and wrote it down impossible."

But you, monsieur, who are Slav and I who am Latin, would hardly arrive at this conclusion. For we would reflect that a knife-blade four inches long, driven into the soft tissues of the body compressed together by the impact of a powerful blow might easily leave a wound measuring seven inches in length behind it—when that compression was released and the tissues relaxed. It is a fact, monsieur, that the Service de la Surete has frequently demonstrated."

The man at the table was motionless as in some indecision. He did not change. He remained only in a sort of dreadful immobility, and he seemed in this immobility to consider some desperate hazard. He was awakened by the two young men from the Bois de Boulogne, who now entered the drawing-room.

"Monsieur," said the voice of the Prefect of Police, "I feared that I might not be your equal in all directions, and I have asked these two agents of the Service to come up. They will also be useful as witnesses to the indenture."

Lord Valleys made no reply. He opened a drawer of the table, took out a pen and attached his signature to the deed—waited until the witnesses had signed it, blotted it carefully and folding it together, handed it to the Prefect of Police.

"I purchase immunity," he said, "from a second trial before the English criminal court."

Monsieur Jonquelle received the indenture and put it into his pocket. He took up his gloves, his hat, his stick, then he smiled.

"You purchased, monsieur," he said, "a thing that you already possess. It is the law of England that one who has been acquitted of a crime cannot again be tried in her courts for it."

Another triumph of M. Jonquelle. "The Laughter of Allah," will begin in our next issue.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Married life, as far as JOHN BARRETT was concerned, had reached the breaking point. He could bear the tedium no longer and told his wife, ANITA, that he intended to live his life to the utmost. Nineteen years of marriage and two children made no difference. He left, going at once to MYRA DEAN, woman of the world, and asked her to take him. When she says that she is about to leave on a six months' trip to the Near East for newspaper work, he leaps to his feet and grasps Myra in his arms.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"WHEN you come back," No—Barrett held her arms in a grip that hurt. "Six months! Are you casually telling me to go home and wait for six months till you come back from the other end of the world and—"

"Now sit down, Johnny, and smoke. It may help you to understand things—besides, you're hurting my arm. There, that's better. Tell me—six months too long I wait for me—"

It was only a longer than I can endure life as it is, muttered I Barrett, glovered at his wife.

Myra paused, poised almost literally on tip-toe of her feet, which depending on the ground. Then she went to her half-packed bag and began putting her work clothes on.

"You know Johnny Barrett. I've always felt that you and I had swapped sexes psychologically. Woman is supposed to act like a man, temper and impulse. Myra, the thinking animal—she flashed a smile at him. Yet here you are a husk, intelligent, none of a woman, proposing to me because, forsooth, you are tired of me."

—here am I, she pointed with her bantering tenderness, very fond of illogical you but very logically insisting that you have not sufficiently thought out the case when you contemplate making matters sure. I am going away. It is a long time to cool off and to think—"

Barrett rose and threw his cigaret into the fire.

Sultan Flees With the Aid Of British Troops

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A Reuter dispatch confirming the flight of the Sultan says that Mohammed VI was accompanied by his 10-year-old son, Prince Ethemoglu, and was dressed in civilian attire and fez. The crown prince and all the Sultan's wives remained behind.

The Sultan's automobile was followed by another containing British officials who were also dressed in mufti. The flight was effected in a heavy rain and only squads of British soldiers and a few scattering Turkish fishermen and Hamaks were at the dock when the party arrived.

The Sultan's voice broke with emotion as he thanked General Harington, commander of the British troops in Constantinople, for protection, and begged the general to make it clear that he was not abdicating.

CHARGE MISSIONARIES ARE FIGHTING TURKS

LAUSANNE, Nov. 17 (By The Associated Press).—Charges that American missionaries in Turkey are carrying on a campaign against the interests of Turkey are contained in a formal statement issued tonight by the Turkish delegation to the peace conference. The statement is on the subject of capitulations which are denounced as a gross injustice to Turkey, and as straining Turkey's development.

The statement charges foreigners, including Americans, with conducting schools in Turkey which foster the spirit of rebellion against the Turkish government, and adds that economic development being the basis of progress, all Turkish progress in the direction of civilization is rendered impossible by the system.

ANGORA TO DEMAND SULTAN'S RETURN

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 17 (By The Associated Press).—It is reported here that the Angora Government will make formal representations to Great Britain for the return of the Sultan to the Kemalists, pointing out that only the great National assembly of Turkey has authority to direct the Sultan's movements, and declaring that he must also be ordered by the government. Raza Pasha, the Nationalist governor, has sent a message to Angora urging immediate convocation of the great national assembly to select a new Caliph.

The most likely candidate for the Caliphate is considered to be Abdul Medjid, cousin of the Sultan, and heir to the Ottoman throne.

SARAZEN WILL LAST LONG TIME

Gene Sarazen, who has already won most of the 1922 honors in golf, seems destined to reign supreme for a long time.

Sarazen is young, takes the very best of care of himself and has not permitted his great success to change the size of his hat.

There is no nineteenth hole for Sarazen. When the game is over, it is the showers, then the hot food for the present champion. None of the championship affairs receive them, unless it is Sarazen.

Gene takes the game seriously. He has already made a lot of money out of it and intends to make a great deal more. It is his livelihood and he means to nurse it.

The very fact that Sarazen eight days after his recent operation for appendicitis is standing around a golf course is proof of the excellent health that he enjoys.

Sarazen looks like the one best bet to hold a high place in golfing circles for years to come.

National Defense Plans Control Of All Of Resources

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—National defense plans of the War Department contemplate governmental control of the entire resources of the country under an efficiency council or board of control. General Pershing announced here tonight speaking at Madison Square Garden before the Merchants Association of New York.

"According to these plans," General Pershing said, "the industrial and manufacturing institutions, agriculture and transportation would be under governmental control, while the personnel pertaining to all of them would be mustered into the service as are those that are called to the colors. An efficiency council or board of control, confirming to our experience in the war, would then be placed in charge of all resources with authority to make such disposition of them as would best promote the success of the nation in war. The initial organization and the system to be adopted should soon be in such tangible form that the personnel could be selected and organized in readiness to take up their duties when needed."

"It is the duty of the war department to study the general need of the country in both men and material to meet the exigencies of war. The conclusions place certain obligations upon the army personnel in addition to its duty as an arm of the administration, from a consideration of which the army can be determined. But our recommendations often go unheeded, partly because in the past, it has been a more or less popular thing to cry out against the army as being militaristic or as dangerous to the liberties of the people, or some such ridiculous plea as might appeal to the ignorant voter."

"That the conduct of war is a big business enterprise which involves a continuance of business principles on the part of the leaders was vividly brought out during the world war, the preliminary preparation necessary to carry on to success were the leaders involved in war should appeal to every business man."

"It is regrettable that a greater number of business men with vision do not make the sacrifice and enter public life during peace and give their countrymen the benefit of practical business experience in the management of both national and international affairs, instead of leaving these duties to the professional office seeker and the political soothsayer."

A good attendance and strong interest in the game is looked for. It will be called at 3 o'clock.

The great increase in accidents is due to automobile owners who neglect to keep their brakes in proper condition, according to the Auto Club.

WHERE THEY PLAY IN THE WEST

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Tomorrow's play in the western conference will see three undefeated contenders for the Big Ten Championship opposed by teams that may be relegated all or some of them to the losing column for the final games of the season a week later. Michigan plays Illinois at Chicago; Michigan meets Wisconsin at Ann Arbor and Iowa opposes Ohio State at Columbus. With the exception of the outcome of the Iowa-Ohio game which Big Ten followers believe will be won by Iowa, the defeat of Chicago and Michigan is not considered unlikely.

More than ordinary interest is attached to the Notre Dame-Butler game at Indianapolis. Neither team has been beaten. The Butler eleven has won straight victories including a triumph over Illinois at the start of the season.

Clemenceau Has Arrived In U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (By The Associated Press).—The steamship Paris entered American waters tonight, bringing George Clemenceau, the premier of France, and her most picturesque citizen, on a great political adventure.

A private citizen past the age when ordinary men go campaigning, Clemenceau comes at 81 to summon the United States in behalf of his beloved France. His campaign will include addresses in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Washington and Philadelphia, and visits to Lincoln, the Tiger and Springfield, Ill., and to Baltimore and Annapolis.

The Tiger planned to spend the night on board the Paris at quarantine, rising with the dawn as in his custom, to await the reception committee selected to welcome him to the land he last visited a century ago.

This committee, headed by Colonel E. L. House, a personal friend of Clemenceau, will go down the bay tomorrow morning, take him aboard the municipal steamer Maconi and land him at the Battery.

The committee will include J. J. Jusserand, French ambassador to Washington; Robert Woods Bliss, assistant secretary of state, representing the government; and Frank L. Polk, George W. Wickersham, Otto H. Kahn and Hamilton Fish Armstrong, representing the Council of Foreign Relations, under the auspices of which the Tiger will make his New York address next Tuesday.

Acting Mayor Hulbert and other city officials will welcome the former premier at the city hall. Then he will drive up a gaily bedecked Fifth Avenue to the home of Charles Dan Gibson on East 73rd Street. The Gibsons have turned their home over to him for the five days he is to stay in New York.

From the time he reaches the Gibson home until Tuesday, Clemenceau plans to keep as quiet as possible, to serve as much of his strength as possible. He has declined dozens of invitations for receptions, dinners and luncheons which have been tendered to him. He has declined to make any save for his addresses, he will make as few public appearances as possible.

SAFETY PIN IS CLOSED IN THE TUMMY OF BABY

ATLANTA, Nov. 18.—An open safety pin in the stomach of a 6-months-old baby here was closed with a wire loop and a pair of pincers, the end of two long pieces of wire and then removed without harm to the baby. The operation is declared to have been one of the most remarkable in the history of surgery. It was performed by a young throat specialist, Dr. J. H. Buff, 25, the best known and most experienced physicians in the city had given up hope of removing the pin.

The baby is the son of Mrs. Ashli, of 321 South Street, an Atlanta attorney. Mrs. Ashli gave the baby milk from a bottle and then put him back to bed in his small room. With a safety pin she fastened the bed covering about him.

She heard the baby scream and noticed that the covert safety pin was gone.

X-rays showed that the point and safety catch were pointing upward, but that the pin, instead of passing through the stomach, had advanced a short distance into the lining.

Dr. Buff looked at the X-ray pictures and said that he could get the safety pin out by using a pair of pincers and attached them to two pieces of wire, each piece a foot and a half long, and at the other end of the wires, he fixed two handles, like the handles of a pair of scissors. He took another wire of the same length. At the end of this wire he attached an electroscope—a tiny electric bulb.

It was at first planned to give the baby ether, but Dr. Buff decided against that.

"This baby is going to get well," he said, "and he has a better chance if we don't give him ether, so we will go ahead just as we are."

The baby's head and arms were held. The doctor fixed one end of the cord of the tiny electric light around his head, then lowered the light down the baby's throat. In his right hand he took the handles at the end of the two wires to which the pincers were attached, and inserted the pincers into the baby's throat and pushed them down to the stomach. In his left hand he took the wire with the loop on it and pushed it down the baby's throat.

With his left hand he slipped the wire loop over the butt-end of the safety pin, which rested just at the entrance to the baby's stomach. With the pincers, manipulated by his right hand, he caught hold of the butt and held the pin steady. Then he closed the pin and drew it out.

The whole operation took 15 minutes. The baby is in perfect health.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE PRAISED BY ARTIST

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—American women are the most interesting and beautiful to a painter, said Lulo Blass, an eminent young Italian painter, who arrived on the Colorado from Naples.

JAKE SCHAEFFER DEFEATED BY BELGIAN CHAMP

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Edouard Horemans, the Belgian, defeated Jake Schaeffer, the champion, by the tally of 500 points to 321 in the fifth game of the 18-2 half-time billiard championship, at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The title-holder was careless and a bit slouchy about his billiards at the start. This proved costly, for Horemans, by wonderful massé, put together runs of 144 and 111 that smothered the champion, who went down to defeat for the first time since he won the title a year ago at Chicago.

Horemans' average was 35 10-14, and he also had runs of 73 and 55. Schaeffer's average was 22 13-14, and his best runs 167, 45 and 38.

The standing of the players tonight was as follows:

Player	W.	L.
Hoppe	2	0
Schaeffer	2	1
Horemans	2	1
Conti	2	1
Cochran	1	2
Hagenlacher	0	4

The two matches scheduled for tomorrow start with Veloso Cochran and Horemans in the matinee contest. Willie Hoppe meets Roger Conti, Frenchman, in the night game.

TWO SIDES OF TURNOVER

The alert business man dealing with present day conditions knows that the big word today is "Turnover." Whether he be a merchant, manufacturer, jobber, or banker, he sees that one thing with a clear vision unbiased by the limits of his own business. It is in the air, and on the tip of every tongue.

And yet many of them—entirely too many—are thinking on only one side of Turnover. They think of it as meaning rapid selling—putting money in and getting it out quickly and at profit. They realize that they must put greatly increased efforts back of all their plans for selling and distribution.

The other half of Turnover is the consumer. All selling plans and efforts fail if the consumer doesn't want to buy. His desire for the product must be created. He must meet the seller half way. He must be in a mood to buy before the salesman meets him across the counter.

That is the function of Advertising—to create consumer demand and consumer preference. With this demand as a fact all selling plans have a chance to succeed. Without it they fail. The only chance for salesmanship to succeed without an existing demand is for salesmanship to assume the task that belongs to advertising—the task of creating demand.

If the present efforts that are being put into selling were amply supported by a corresponding effort to create consumer demand through Advertising, the business conditions of this country would be rapidly changed into an era of great prosperity—in spite of Old World conditions and everything else.

The proof of this is in the fact that right now, under these very conditions, the manufacturers who are putting proper emphasis on creating a demand for their product, as well as selling it, are doing a big business and are actually getting the high turnover that others are trying so strenuously to get through intensive selling.

America's Venus Tells How to Develop Beauty

THIS "BENDING EXERCISE" REDUCES THE WAIST AND MAKES THE SPINE STRAIGHT AND THE LEGS SYMMETRICAL

AMERICA'S VENUS TALKS BY DOROTHY KNAPP

A beautiful face or a beautiful figure is impossible without good health, and good health is impossible without correct habits of exercise and diet.

Our forefathers who lived in the open and didn't depend on subways and motors got plenty of exercise and did not have to worry about Indian clubs, dumbbells or daily dozens.

But modern life makes no call on some of our muscles and gives them no chance to develop, so unless we take the matter in hand and exercise them sooner or later we pay the penalty of our neglect in flabby muscles, fat or undeveloped bones and then ill health.

R. M. A. Defeated Here Yesterday

The Danville High School football team had a hard fight of its hands yesterday in its game with Randolph-Macon Academy. The score of the game was 13 to 2 in Danville's favor, but the local lads knew they had been in a contest before the final whistle blew.

Randolph-Macon scored first making two points when a Danville player who intercepted a forward pass behind a goal line, attempted to run it out. The decision of the referee has been questioned on this play, and it is probable that higher authority will be consulted on the matter.

However, the decision made little difference in the final score. Danville's superiority was demonstrated beyond the peradventure of a doubt, but it took four hard-fought quarters to reach the goal.

The visitors held the locals scoreless during the first quarter and after the two points were scored even threatened to make a touchdown reaching the four-yard line when they were stopped.

Toward the middle of the second quarter Danville pushed over its first touchdown, and Jackson scored goal. During the last ten minutes of the ball game, Danville pushed forth in the middle of the field.

When the third quarter arrived Danville started out with new vigor and soon scored another touchdown making goal. The locals got as close as one foot from the coveted mark at one time but were held for down.

The work of Sholar, left end, for the visitors, stands out conspicuously. He was called upon a number of times to make sweeping end runs, and his gains were the most spectacular of the game. Near the end of the game he was shifted to quarter and his work there was splendid.

Red Wilson, halfback, and Taylor and, for Danville, did the best work.

The line-up and summary:

Danville	Position	R. M. A.
Campbell	R. E.	Terry
Burgess	R. T.	Moore
Lea	R. G.	Collier
Foster	Center	Thorton
Harvey	L. G.	Goodall

Substitutions—Franklin for Taylor, Hardy for Burgess, Moran for Jackson, Reeves for Campbell, Coffey for Clark, referee, Hench, umpire, Keck, head linesman. Time of quarters—12 minutes.

Yale-Princeton Tilt Today Is the Acid Test

PRINCETON, N. J. Nov. 17.—Yale and Princeton members of that tight little corporation known as the Big Three, are to meet tomorrow afternoon at Palmer Stadium in one of the classics of the 1922 football season. Out of the meeting will come definite knowledge of whether Yale football has taken the high road to regeneration or is the wastrel of other seasons, prodigal alike of opportunity and man-power.

The meeting also will give a more intimate view of T. A. D. Jones either as a maker of destiny or as one whose leadership is not long for this world. It is no star chamber secret that upon the success of the Yale eleven in the Princeton and Harvard games hangs the future of Jones as head coach at New Haven.

Jones must produce. He must win either game or both to be retaining Yale is about fed up on failure in the face of optimistic prospects.

On paper the Yale team is the strongest it has mustered since the days of Ted Grier and is generally favored to beat Princeton. It may or may not do so, for Yale eleven of the present generation are given to the annoying custom of playing second class football against first class rivals.

However, a comparison of the teams shows the bulldog much the sounder, defensively, and with backs of the calibre of O'Hearn, Jordan, Neidinger, Neale and others, possessors of a greater variety and power in attack.

Indeed, it is understood that Princeton does not hope to hold Yale in check, it merely hopes to outscore the locals and with this idea in mind will open wide everything it has in the strategic bag.

Princeton has ever been inclined more to the unorthodox than have Yale and Harvard, and today its attack is expected to range through all phases of the open game, particularly if Yale manages to get an early lead. Such plans as the lateral pass on the kickoff and the goal-line pass, which Cleaves and Gorman are said to have trumped up on the spur of the moment, were carried through in the Chicago game, with Princeton trailing by a score of 15 to 7. They show to what lengths a team with an insecure defense will go.

The Princeton team this year is not only below the Tiger standard, defensively, but it has no ball runner of the Louisie type nor no line plunger such as Garrity. It must resort to guile and subtlety, and around an individual named Sholar is built most of the strategy. He is a remarkable forward passer, and Yale will do well to hurry his movements at all times, not forgetting for a moment to keep a weather eye on Cleaves, Gorman, Gray and other eligible receivers.

No matter which way the verdict goes a Big Three game is an impressive affair. The huge concrete horseshoe known as Palmer Stadium will be filled to a multi-colored crowd of 50,000 by game time affording a spectacle without which the thrill of actual play would become quite tame.

GEORGIA TECH'S SMALL SCORES

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 17.—Much has been said this year about the small total score that Georgia Tech has run up in contrast to the large scores of former years. So far this year in seven years, Tech has scored only 124 points. In 1920 by this time Tech had scored 243 points, and in 1921 they had scored over 230 points.

This may be accounted for in a number of ways. First points after touchdowns are not so frequent. Second, the opposition all over the country is keener than in those days. But third and most important, Tech has played against teams whenever possible. Against teams such as Clemson, Davidson, Oglethorpe and Alabama, Tech has put in the second, third and once against Clemson, the fourth team. That is also one reason why Tech has scored only twice in the second half this year.

The reason for the frequent substitution is obvious when it is noted that 22 out of the 28 men constituting the varsity squad will be missing from the roll call next year. This means that Tech must build a team out of the substitutes of this year. Hence it is vital that these men get all the experience they can and that they play together as a team wherever possible. Alex has stormy days ahead next year, and he is preparing for them.

The lineup against North Carolina State will be as follows: Fleetwood center, Borum R. G., McConnell L. G., Lyman R. T., Johnson L. T., Mitchell R. E., Gardner L. E., McDonough, Q. H., Hunt F., Barron L. H., Brewster R. H. Kyle's absence is caused by an operation on an ulcerated tooth. Davis, Davis, A. Staton, J. Staton, McIntyre, and Sery are being given a chance to rest in preparation for the Auburn game.

There is not an injury on the squad, and Coach Alexander intends to keep the squad in the best possible condition, for he knows that the Auburn game will probably be the hardest game of the season with the championship of the South at stake.

DEMISEY'S DOPE PROVED CORRECT

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—When it comes to fighting you can't fool Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey. After Carpenter's defeat at the hands of Battling Siki, Dempsey remarked that the Frenchman had adopted the wrong tactics in trying to knock Siki out by hitting him on the jaw. Here's the proof.

Scientists at Chicago University recently made a test of the skulls of the Senegalese tribe, of which Siki is a member, and discovered that practically impervious to a capable of standing great amount of jar and vibration.

All of which bears out the opinion of Champion Dempsey that Carpenter adopted the wrong methods by swinging to the jaw and forgetting the stomach, a far more delicate part of the Senegalese anatomy.

CALIFORNIA SUFFERS MANY FOREST FIRES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Forest fires near Los Angeles County for the present season have increased greatly in number and burned over much more territory than in any previous year, according to Stuart Fitham, local forester official.

Most of the mountain fires were caused by carelessness of hunters and picnickers, according to Fitham, who stated there had been more than six convictions for violation of the fire laws in the mountains this year. It is said the season will not be over for several weeks yet.

How Essex Views the Closed Car Question

Until Essex brought out the Coach, a closed car on a first rate chassis could not be had at a moderate price.

Buyers took it by the thousands. Nothing like it was ever experienced in closed car sales. And in consequence other makers added closed cars to their lines.

But their bid for a share of the trade is not based upon the principle which gives the Essex its distinction.

Mark how different it is

Elaborate fittings intended to lend an air of luxury are not featured in the Essex. It is sold strictly on its merits as a complete and superb motor car mechanically. It established itself as one of the leading four cylinder motor cars of the world in performance, endurance, reliability and economy.

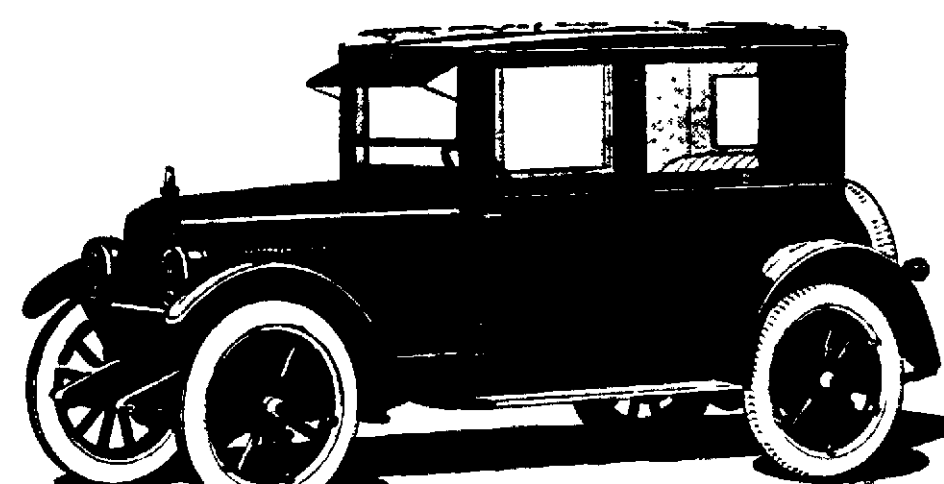

One stock car under official observation travelled 3,037 miles in fifty hours. Four stock cars each lowered all previous time records between San Francisco and New York.

It is upon such a chassis that the Coach is mounted. The same idea of utility guided its creation. It has staunchness and character. It gives the utility of the costliest cars. It stays tight and secure.

Yet such a delightful closed body does not place the Essex Coach price beyond the reach of those who can afford a good open car.

COTTON FOUNDATION OF

GOOD BUSINESS CONDITIONS

ATLANTA, Nov. 17.—Cotton is the foundation of the present healthy business condition of the South.

The holding movement by owners of actual cotton was strengthened materially by the ruling of the Federal Reserve Board admitted to eligibility for rediscount the paper of cooperative marketing organizations.

New England mills are clamoring for raw material and one solid trail load of forty cars of condensed cotton is now on its way to Boston by way of Norfolk. Owners of spot cotton appear certain of their advantage. Bank clearings are the largest shown for a year or more and general business is increasing.

WEATHER HELPS THE

THRASHING SITUATION

DETROIT, November 17.—Thanks to the weather man the general thrashing situation here and in the rest of Michigan is righting itself.

Increasing lumber shipments many weeks overdue are arriving and in some cases are accompanied by supplies ordered more recently. The freight movement in other commodities is improving similarly except in the case of anthracite, which is still glutted and has arrived that dealers working last it cannot be marketed before January when it is expected there will be more hard coal available.

RY. TRANSPORTATION

RAPIDLY IMPROVING

ST. LOUIS, November 17.—Railroad transportation in this territory is improving rapidly.

Many of the freight emporiums which have been in effect in this territory have been lifted at least temporarily. Consequently Christmas merchandise and stock replenishments are reaching merchants in good time.

Street railway traffic in this section has improved and now is about normal while other public utility activities have returned to the usual level of activity. Retail business is wonderfully brisk and stores both in cities and country communities are filled daily.

SEATTLE, November 17.—Excess supplies of coal for domestic use are piled on the ground here today because of slack retail demand, due to unseasonable warm weather. The output of the mines in western Washington is normal but some properties are working only five days a week.

GRAIN

DETROIT, November 17.—A great amount of grain is passing down the Detroit river this week than any time during this season. Shipments aggregate close to 10,000,000 bushels.

Buying of pig iron is slow here. No sales for first quarter delivery have been made although melters are asking for bids. Makers of fabricated steel reported today a good business as the result of building activities. Manufacturers of metal furniture also reported a good demand.

COAL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., November 17.—Shipments of coal from the Alabama fields have been largely diverted to northern points and as a result reports are received here that Louisiana points have only a short supply on hand.

OWEN STARS

IN ATHLETICS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—George Owen, star of the Harvard football team, is one of the best athletes in captivity. Owen, aside from being the big threat of the Crimson eleven, is also captain of the hockey and baseball teams.

Owen, after finishing the football season against Yale on Nov. 5, will take up his duties as hockey leader.

The popularity of Owen at Harvard is proved by the fact that he has been honored in each sport. He being elected to the captaincy. He is a star on the diamond, gridiron or ice, but has won his greatest fame as a football player.

Harvard will miss Owen on the football field when he graduates at the end of the season. Owen's offense for several years has been built around him.

While Owen has not been as spectacular this year as last, it is believed that he will again be an All America selection.

BUILDING IS ACTIVE

SEATTLE, November 17.—Building is more active than ever with the approaching of winter. Permits issued within the last month call for expenditure of $2,250,000. These included structures. The total value of apartment houses actually under construction at present is $2,500,000. The year is expected to break all records for building construction.

A PUZZLE A DAY

THE CLEVER CARPENTER
 A carpenter needed a piece of board exactly one foot square. The only available board was two feet square, but it was pierced with 16 holes, as shown in the drawing. (The drawing is exactly two inches square; i. e., on the scale of one inch to a foot.) How did he manage to obtain the board he needed?

Yesterday's answer:
 When the man was met by two fathers and their two sons, he was not met by four men, as might be supposed, but by three—a grandfather, his son and his grandson. As the man had six ten-dollar bills, he gave one to the grandfather, two to the father and two to the grandson, thus dividing the $60 equally among them. The catch lies in the fact that one of the three creditors was both the son of one and the father of another.

START MOVEMENT TO

RESTORE STATE RIGHTS

DETROIT, November 17.—The Michigan State Utilities Commission has started a movement to bring pressure to bear on Michigan representatives in Congress to work restoration of state rights in the matter of railroad regulations. The commission claims that a considerable part of the present difficulty over moving the potato and sugar crops of Michigan could have been avoided if the state commission had been in control. Shippers also have started a fight against the freight zoning system which they declare operated to the detriment of farmer and shippers in the Northern section of the state.

AFRAID? NOT HE!

By EDWARD THERREY
NEA Service Staff Writer.

HIGHLAND, FALLS, N. V., Nov. 18.—I came to the village of Highland Falls to have a look at the man who had the nerve to back a wagon up against Mrs. J. P. Morgan's coal pile and cart away enough coal to keep the home fires going for countless townpeople.

The man is William L. Perkins, fuel administrator of Orange county. He is stout, elderly, wears glasses, and is a retired grain and feed dealer.

Why, there wasn't five tons of coal in all Highland Falls until we had just said Perkins. "What do you suppose they appointed me fuel administrator for?" So's everybody would have coal, wasn't it? Not just the rich—but the poor, too.

"Well, I found there was a great sack of coal at the country place of Mrs. J. P. Morgan's. And I took it to Robert Goetz's place. And only five tons in Highland Falls, a sizable place, you know."

Sizes 20 Tons.
"I've just had 20 tons taken away from Mrs. Morgan's place and distributed to families in the village. I'm taking more from her before I'm through. Now we're parcelling out some of the Goetz's extra coal. I don't know how much they have, except that they've got too much according to the way I read the law."

"I know of 50 tons in one pile in the Goetz back yard. The law says you can't hold more than one month's supply."

Percy Wilkinson, superintendent of the 1600-acre Morgan estate, says the Morgans burn five tons a week. And according to reports, there are 350 tons stored on the place.

"Understand, the Morgans and Goetz aren't offering any resistance to our seizing the coal. I guess they know the law all right."

What's this about their offering voluntarily to divide their coal with the villagers? Perkins was asked.

"That's just a yarn. They didn't offer anybody as much as a lump of coal. So we took it."

You can see how this works against the poor family or the one of moderate means. It isn't right for somebody with money to grab off all the coal just because they have the money and get their orders in early.

"Am I popular? Hanged if I know."

or care. It's doing my duty. I don't get any pay for this job, but it isn't a question of money.

"All I'm interested in is seeing that all the families in Highland Falls get the coal they need. The coal dealers are doing the delivering, and all they get is a normal profit."

Virginia Supreme Court Recognizes Moron Mind

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 17.—In a decision today reversing the Circuit Court of Rockingham County the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals recognized for the first time what is known as the doctrine of comparative intellect. The case involved a chancery action to rescind and annul the collection of nine judgments totaling $22,600 entered against Mike A. Long, well-known young man, was weak-minded and inaction was brought by his father, Lee Long, who set up the plea that the young man was weak-minded and incapable of transacting business.

It was charged in the petition that the judgments as well as the notes upon which they were based were obtained by fraudulent means and undue influence. Defendants in the action were William C. Harrison and D. B. Harrison, in whose favor the judgments were entered. The transactions involved in the litigation were in connection with the sale of cattle.

It was brought out that alienists in Richmond who examined Long, ascertained that he had the mind of a boy between 13 and 14 years old. Physicians say he is what is known as a moron. Heretofore, it appears, the courts have drawn the distinction only between persons of sound mind and those who are insane. In the lower court Judge Haas declined to order a rescission of the judgments, there being practically no authority on which to base such a ruling.

Judgment of the Augusta County court whereby Pirkey Brothers were fined $250 for keeping Weyer's cave open Sundays and charging admission was affirmed. This involved interpretation of the "Blue laws."

A similar case from Roanoke county, in which the Lakeside Inn Corporation was fined $75 for keeping a bathing resort open Sundays, was remanded because of error in instructions.

Pocket Flask and Flapper Chief Worries of W. C. T. U.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—The pocket flask, in its relation to young men and women, was flayed today by speakers at the opening session here of the national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Grace Leigh Scott, Women's Christian Temperance Union lecturer, confessed white ribbons are "worried about the flapper."

Lieut. Wida C. Van Winkle, of the Women's Bureau of the Washington Police Department, declared that the pocket flask more than economic conditions was responsible for the ruin of young people.

Constructive recreation centers were advocated by Miss Henrietta Addison, former secretary of the Big Sister Association, of Philadelphia.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the World's Women's Christian Temperance Union today by William E. Crafts, of Washington, superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, made an address urging a stranger foreign policy by the Government with relations to Turkey.

HAS CONFESSED PART IN AMBUSH

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 17.—L. E. Baldwin, one of 41 men arrested following an ambush near here Wednesday night which resulted in the death of one man and the wounding of two others, has confessed, according to the police, that he was a member of the attacking party and implicated two other men, Trans Conno, an aged man and Thomas Talley, a young man, in the shooting.

The shooting followed a gun battle in the town of Hot Springs, which was the result of a dispute between the K. K. K. and the local police.

Young Bank Cashier Victim of Rush for Quick Riches

WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Nov. 17.—Speculating in the stock market with funds procured on forged notes and with securities stolen after they had been left at his bank for safe-keeping, Harry M. Titus, cashier of the First National Bank, has defaulted in the sum of $20,000 and is under surveillance, pending formal arrest by Federal officers, who will follow with his prosecution. The forging and misappropriation of securities were revealed to the bank directors today, after discoveries by a bank examiner, and the whole matter was placed before them in the presence of the public, who made no denial of the startling revelations. Titus was forced to resign on the spot and is being held for Federal authorities.

The information from the directors does not include all the details of Titus' downfall, but it is known that the cashier has been dealing extensively with a New York curb broker and inquiry at the broker's office revealed that Titus could not meet stock commitment obligations and it was necessary to dispose of the stolen securities deposited as collateral. It is understood that there is nothing left of the $20,000 on which Titus can realize. The defalcation will in no way affect the bank's capital or surplus and there will be no loss to directors or stockholders, full protection being had through insurance and a surety bond, the officials said.

Ever since Titus became cashier he has attracted attention by his business-like methods and commanded the respect of bank officials and the public generally. The bank, with him as the working man, has been a busy place. Camp D. C. Titus has been considered an exceptional cashier for a young man, he being about 23 years old. He was a bank employee before war service and became cashier shortly after being mustered out. He has been married during the past year and lives in an attractive home in Mount Holly.

Announcement was made by the bank directors tonight that arrangements will be made at once to replace depositors all securities stolen and lost.

Weeks Denies Employment of Newspaper Men As Spies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Secretary of War Weeks flatly denied today that the War Department had employed or sought to employ any American newspaper correspondents abroad to act as spies for their Government, as charged by the London publication, John Bull.

This periodical gives details of what purports to be two circulars sent out "at the instance of the American Secretary of War, requesting confidential aid of a number of unimpeachably significant questions."

Secretary Weeks authorized the following statement:

"The War Department has not taken any action whatsoever, either formally or informally, to obtain any confidential reports from any American correspondents abroad."

The information sought from the correspondents, according to John Bull, included:

Had the correspondent war experience? What did he know of military and naval matters? What language was he familiar with? What countries had he first-hand knowledge of?

Whether he was in a position to undertake work involving the collection of accurate information regarding developments in military, naval and aviation matters pertaining to warfare generally, with a view to keeping the intelligence branch of the War Department advised of the latest developments in all European military and naval establishments.

KILLS 2 GIRLS THEN HIMSELF

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 17.—Miss Tansy Bolton, 25, Mrs. J. T. O'Brien, 38, and Hjalmer Anderson, 39, are dead today as a result of a double killing and suicide in a cabin at Copaly's Beach, an ocean point about 25 miles from here, this morning. Anderson, according to the police, killed the two women, first hacking Miss Bolton with a knife, and then killed himself.

Jealousy is presumed to have prompted the act, the police say. Miss Bolton made a fight for life, evidently escaping her assailant for a time. Anderson pursued her from the cabin, it is believed, and killed her. Her body was found on the beach. Officials later found the body of Mrs. O'Brien in the cabin and that of Anderson outside.
